For more than fifty years has PERRY DAVIS' PAIN KILLER stood the test against all remedies prepared to eradicate pain, and today stands at the head of the list among the medicines that are so essential to keep at hand in the home.

It is not a new fangle remedy nor do the proprietors lay claim to any wonderful revelation of the ingredients that enter into the manufacture of this ever popular remedy.

It is perfectly harmless, you need have no fear of becoming habitually inclined to its use.

For Colic, Cramps, Dysentery, Colds, and all painful affections, a few doses will certainly give relief. You cannot afford to be without a bottle in the house.

Your forefathers used it and found it beneficial.

Why experiment with some remedy that is new and its effect on the system unknown?

It has many rivals but no equal.

The new 35c. size contains over double the quantity of the 25c. size.

NEWS FROM PARIS.

Modes and Manners of the Great French Capital.

Nothing goes to waste in Paris. A recent notice in one of the journals announces that the advertiser buys old false teeth. A French newspaper writer, having seen the advertisement, inquires, most suggestively: "What can be done with those? And how is it possible to have an easy mind?"

To draw the hair back from the face is now the fashionable way of dressing it, but it is kept still light and fluffy. Unfortunately the complete exposure of the forehead is not becoming to every one, and women whom the style does not suit would do best to retain a few curls in front or part the hair in the middle and wave it at each side.

The tendency of the mode toward the tighter effect in skirts—the front breadth being of different material or plaited, puffed or decorated in some individual way—

VELOURS COSTUME.

Is significant of a future return of the overskirt. The plain skirt has had an exceptionally long reign, and few women are yet fully prepared to relinquish it, it is so graceful, becoming and comparatively light of weight.

Sashes, tied behind with long ends, in baby fashion, are coming to the front. They are only suitable for young girls and women, but are sometimes seen worn by older persons. Roman sashes, of exquisitely blended colors, with knotted fringe, are to accompany light spring and summer gowns, as well as evening dresses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

The Bishop and the Cabby.

The Irish Ecclesiastical Journal tells this story: "Last week an Irish bishop was driving home to his hotel in the city from a suburb of Dublin, with a lady and one of the junior clergy as his escort. It was late at night, dark, windy and rainy, and the cabman drove away merrily, but after some peculiar turnings and ten minutes' driving the cab was returning whence it had started. The wherefore was evident, as the cabby was drunk. However, home had to be reached, and his lordship, a man of action, jumped out of the cab, mounted the box and drove at a good round pace into town. On reaching his destination the right reverend prelate said he thought he ought to be paid, a sentiment in which the cabby acquiesced with the utmost good humor, but pocketed his fare notwithstanding. To be driven home by a bishop on a cab," adds our contemporary, "falls not to the lot of many curates, and is surely worth recording."
